WHAT NOT TO FLUSH

When the right things go down the toilet they are flushed away and start a journey through our wastewater treatment network traveling along pipes to our treatment plant where waste is taken out that the wastewater is treated.

When items are flushed down the toilet that should be out in the trash, they can cause problems in our homes, the wastewater treatment network and at the wastewater treatment plant - these items can cause blockages in the pipes and issues with our pumps. Ultimately raising the costs to operating the wastewater system.
